Preventive raid by personnel of State Small Vessels Inspectorate of Russian Emergencies Ministry in Tver Region

The Month of water safety in autumn and winter 2013-2014 started in Tver Region on 14 November 2013. A complex of events aimed at prevention and reduction of accidents and death of people in water is held on water bodies of the region.

On 20 November personnel of the State Small Vessels Inspectorate of the Russian Emergencies Ministry in Tver Region together with media held a preventive raid along the Volga in the city of Tver. Each day the inspectors patrol rivers and lakes in the region to provide security. Despite the cold weather and that the navigation season is closed, the citizens still go to the water bodies for holidaymaking and fishing.

During the raids and patrols the inspectors check documents and observance of rules for registration of boats and if there are life jackets on board.

Since the beginning of the year the inspectors of the State Small Vessels Inspectorate in Tver Region have held over two thousand patrols, often involving police forces, state technical surveillance and representatives of student rescue corps and VOSVOD.

Today all inspectorate stations in Tver Region have power boats ready to carry out raids and respond to water incidents.

When the water bodies freeze over and during whole winter air cushion boats, snowmobiles and all-terrain vehicles of the State Small Vessels Inspectorate in Tver Region will be on duty.
